

Photo: Fabian Jones/Unsplash

The Practice of Discerning Truth

- How can we recognize truth in the midst of disinformation and manipulation?
- What does “a free and responsible search for truth and meaning” look like today?
- How do you determine what is trustworthy? What are the steps or strategies you use to determine whether a source is trustworthy?
- How are you responding to Artificial Intelligence uses and AI created content? Do you have concerns?

If you're going to speak truth to power, make sure it's the truth.
Margaret Atwood

Stories allow us to see many aspects of truth, including the truth of what our own personal outlooks cannot see.
Rev. Lynn Harrison

The firmest and noblest ground on which people can live is truth.
Ralph Waldo Emerson

If you do not tell the truth about yourself, you cannot tell it about other people.
Virginia Woolf

Art can reveal truths that are hidden or denied. The inconvenient truths, the ugly truths, the inspiring truths. This is essential when the public discourse is vandalized by lies . . .
Kathleen Dean Moore

Meaning Making Project Feb 2026